

Clone Bank for Rare Species

Forest genetic resources have given great benefit to humankind since long ago. And forest genetic resources are expected to continue to provide us benefits in the future along with development of science and technology. But if forest genetic resources lost once, they can never be regenerated. For this reason, FTBC is working to preserve endangered and rare species to pass them on to future generations as forest tree genetic resources.